

Students who also work need a way to track and be reminded of their level of physical activity, because they rarely have the time or mental capacity to do so themselves.